

Plavan Petroleum to Market and Distribute Renewable and Biodegradable "BioBlend" Products

Meeting growing demand for environmentally sensitive lubricants

SAN DIEGO -June 20, 2007 - Plavan Petroleum, Inc., marketers of petroleum products and management services to fleet operators, the marine industry and marinas, contractors, agriculture and other commercial and industrial petroleum products users, continues its commitment to its customers and the environment by adding the full-line of BioBlend lubricant products to its product offering. "Our customer's are asking for alternatives to the traditional petroleum based lubricants in order to become more socially responsible and to comply with government and company initiatives", said JP. Plavan, President of Plavan. "We looked at the all the options available in the market and found that BioBlend provided products with excellent thermal and oxidative stability while delivering superior anti-wear and anti-corrosion protection."

The BioBlend products include oils, greases, metal working fluids, and hydraulic fluids, specially formulated for numerous applications including industrial, agricultural and food production and packaging operations. Many companies are compelled to seek safer and more environmentally conscious options for their lubrication needs without sacrificing the performance and reliability found in 100% petroleum based products. BioBlend provides these products and manufactures the Biodegradable products with renewable vegetable oils and other specially formulated products. "We had a hard time finding not only a quality, reliable product line, but also a company that understood the lubrication business and could meet our inventory demand. We found all those with BioBlend" said Plavan.

As one of Southern California's most progressive lubricants distributors, Plavan continues to exceed customer expectations with innovative new products and services continuing the transition from products supplier to business partner, helping their customers run cleaner, safer, and more profitable businesses.

About Plavan Petroleum: Plavan is a leading provider of next generation petroleum product supply and management services. Utilizing creative problem solving and the latest technologies, Plavan maximizes the value that customers receive from petroleum purchases. www.plavan.com
For additional information call; 888.626.6672, or write; sales@plavan.com

About BioBlend: BioBlend provides products formulated from environmentally responsible chemistries that are produced from renewable resources and designed to assure optimum performance of their customers' operating systems. Utilizing innovative technology and the latest advances in bio-based feedstocks and bio-friendly additives, BioBlend combines highly stable vegetable base oils with unique additive technologies. Their biodegradable and non-toxic formulations are designed to maximize renewable content that meets or exceeds USDA standards for renewable products.
www.bioblend.com
For additional information call; 630.227.1800, or write; info@bioblend.com